Who Wrote "Tear Down the Plaunt ing Lie?"

ADAMES

We find in yesterday's Register an article copied from the Ohio Statesman entitled "Who wrote 'Tear down the Flaunting Lie?'" and ascribing the authorahlp to either George Boweryem or William Oland Bourne (whoever they may be). Sometime since our Democratic cotemporary having referred to this poem as a Radical production, we stated that it was written by "Private Miles O'Rellley," the pseudonym of Gen. Charles G. Halpine, deceased, and at the time of his death editor of the New York Citisen, a Democratic newspaper published in New York. Hall to the Stars and Stripes!
They float in every ses;
O'er every ocean sweeps
Our emblem of the Free,
Beneath the azure skies
Of the soft Italian clime,

All hall the flaunting Lie !
The stars grow pair and dim—
The stripes are bloody acars.
A lie the flaunting hymn!
It shields a pirates deck
It blicks.

It shields a pirates deck,
It blinds a man in chains,
And round the captive's neck
Its folds are bloody stains.

Tear down the flaunting lie!
Half most the seary flag!
Insult no sunny sky
With this pointed reg!
Destroy it ye who can!
Deep sink it in the waves!
It bears a fellow man
To groan with fellow slaves.

Awake the burning scorn— The vengance long and deep,
That, till a better morn,
Shall neither tire nor sleen!
Swear once agin the yow,
By all we hope or dream,
That what we suffer now
The future shall redeem.

The future shall redeem.

Farl, furl the boasted Lie,
Till Frectom lives again,
With stature grand and purpose high
Among untrammeded men!
Roll up the starry sheem,
Conceat its bloody status;
For in its lods are seen
The stamp of rusting chains.

Swear, Freemen—ill as one— To spurn the flaunting Lie, Till Peses, and Truth, and Love Shall fill the brooding say;

Then floating in the air,

Then floating in the air,

To all of treason, disloyalty, or contempt for the national flag," says Gen. Halpine, "that the enemies of human freedem can find in the foregoing verses, we bid them heartily welcome. They have never heretofore published more than a few stanzas, and even those few were garbled and twisted out of their proper sense and connec-tion. It will be seen that far from being an utterance in contempt of the flag, it was a cry of sorrowful indiguation at beholding the desecration of that emblem," We print the poem, however, without reference to its sen-timents, as a matter of literary interest and to correct the many erroneous statements in regard to its origin that
